For Apprentices Indentures, you pay the Money to the Receiver, who will Sign the Back of the Indentures for the Receipt of the Money paid to him: Then you carry them to the Comptroller of that Duty, the Room on the Left-Hand below Stairs, to have them entered: Then give them, over against that Room, to the Stampers to be Stamped.

And for the future, that Persons through Ignorance may not incur the Penalties in any of the Acts relating to Indentures and Articles of Clerks and Apprentices, the Indenture to bear Date the Day executed, and the Sum given to be inserted in Words at Length, under Forfeiture of double the Money given with the Apprentice, &c. the Duty to be paid by the Master or Mistress of such Apprentice, &c. if the Sum is Fifty Pounds or under, Six-pence in the Pound, if above, Twelve-pence a Pound for every Pound so given: The Indentures to be brought to the Stamp-Office in one Month after Date, and the Duty to be paid, if executed within the Bills of Mortality:
